From an explanation in the lower right-hand corner of the map the counties conceded to each candidate can readily be seen. The counties in white are claimed by both parties, the first line of printing in the county showing , the plurality by which the Democratic County Chairman expects to carry it, and the second the plurality hoped for by the Republicans.

HO will carry the State of Ohio is a question being asked daily by every politician in the land. The balliwick of Mark Hanna and William McKinley is in doubt. A systematic and complete poll of the State made by the Journal shows that both Democrats and Republicans figure on carrying the State. Both sides are equally positive that the electoral vote of the State will be cast for their respective candidates. While the poll does not show which side will win, it does, in terms unmistakable, contradict the statement sent out by the Republican Commitplurality of 150,000 or 200,000.

Republicans who have not studied the situation or the figures are satisfied, and always have rendy an opinion, but the thinking men of the party who have been endeavoring in every possible way to gauge the trend of public sentiment are not so willing to talk. They are extremely care ful in all their statements, and some of Ohio's most practical Republican party managers admit, in confidence, of course that Major McKinley will only carry the State by a plurality of 25,000. A month ago these same managers were claiming the State by piuralities ranging from 75,000 to

The labor sentiment of the State is un questionably favorable to Mr. Bryan. There is probably one exception to this statement, and that is in the case of railand employes. They are loud in their praise of the gold standard, but the recognixed heads of organized labor say that with the secret bullet system, where no man knows how another votes, the percent age of votes cast by laboring men for Mc-Kinley will be very small. The men have a perperual object desson before them-the reatment of the seamen of the lakes by Marcus Aurelius Hanna.

Rural Ohio is for Bryan. Ohio was one of the first and leading States in the Farmers' Alliance movement. and the farmers are favorable to the cause champloned by Mr. Bryan. All estimates indicate that the Democracy will make large gains in agricultural districts throughout the State. The tariff question cuts but little figure even in the wool growing districts. Small merchants, who are dependent on the agricultural classes are favorable to Bryan. This is shown by reports received at Republican and Demo cratic headquarters, and in view of this change of sentiment on the part of Ohio voters, the Democratic managers feel assured that all the money, misrepresenta-tion and coercion used by the Republicans will not avail to break the wave of free silver sentiment.

In the Western reserve, which comprise the countles of Ashtabula, Lorain, Trumbull, Medina, Summit, Portage and Geauga, there will be large Democratic gains. The same applies to the Ohio River country. which for years was a stronghold of Repul Heanism. The northwest tier of countles once solidly Democratic, but in recent years changed to the Republican column, give evidence of returning to the Democratic fold. There will also be gains for Bryan in the Miami and Hocking Valley sections except in the large citles where the Repubreceived, they are only claiming counties which they stand a chance of carrying-the plurality for Bryan in Ohio will be 30,750. Ohio contains eighty-eight countles. The Democrats concede that the Republicans can earry twenty counties, claiming for Mr. Bryan forty-eight counties, with a plurality of 44,330, from which the plurality of the twenty countles conceded to McKinley, 16,198, must be deducted, leav ing Mr. Bryan a net plurality of 28,132 on their estimates. From the table below it will be seen that in some countles the chairmen considered the contest too close to make an estimate.

Heans will possibly make a gain.

The poil made by the Journal was one of most complete and exhaustive ever made in the State. County chairmen in a few instances refused to make an estimate and the data had to be obtained from the chairmen of the State Committee.

Estimates from a Republican point of view indicate that they figure on carrying 38 countles by a plurality of 78,117 and concede 12 countles to the Democrats by a plurality of 16,182, leaving the State # McKinley plurality of 50,925. The chairmen of both Republican County and State committees refused to estimate on some counties, saying that they did not care to make public their plans.

In the countles conceded to a candidate the figures show the plurality by which it is claimed and conceded by the opposition The following table shows the estimates
